SUPPLEMENT TO THE COMPARATIVE POLITICAL DATA SET – GOVERNMENT COMPOSITION 1960-2015

Klaus Armingeon, Virginia Wenger, Fiona Wiedemeier, Christian Isler, Laura Knöpfl and David Weisstanner

The Supplement to the Comparative Political Data Set provides detailed information on party composition, reshuffles, duration, reason for termination and on the type of government for 36 democratic OECD and/or EU-member countries.

In order to obtain information on both the change of ideological composition and the following gap between the new an old cabinet, the supplement contains alternative data for the year 1959.

The government variables in the main Comparative Political Data Set are based upon the data presented in this supplement.

When using data from this data set, please quote both the data set and, where appropriate, the original source. Please quote this data set as:

2. Governments – Composition

Termination

Reason for termination of previous government due to
(1) elections,
(2) voluntary resignation of the Prime Minister,
(3) resignation of the Prime Minister due to health,
(4) dissension within government (break up of the coalition),
(5) lack of parliamentary support,
(6) intervention by the head of state, or
(7) broadening of the coalition (inclusion of new parties).

Source: Woldendorp et al. (2000: 16f); and own adjustments based on European Journal of Political Research (Political Data Yearbook, various issues).

Note:
1. Reshuffles do not count as a reason for termination and are indicated with a 0.
2. USA: The reason for termination of the previous government on 22nd of November 1963 is the assassination of President Kennedy.

Number of Cabinet Posts

Number of cabinet posts in government split into the categories right, center and left. Only full cabinet members count.

Notes:
1. In depth information on the categories and the allocation of parties to these categories is provided in Appendix 1.
2. France: Junior ministers (secretaires d’Etat) are not considered as full cabinet ministers. However, ministers attached to the Prime Minister (ministres auprès du premier ministre) are taken into account.
Codebook: Government Composition, 1960-2015

% of Posts in Government
Number of cabinet posts of right, center and left governing parties as a percentage of the total number of ministries in government.

Source: Own calculations based on Woldendorp et al. (2000: 16f) and from 1995 onwards European Journal of Political Research (Political Data Yearbook, various issues).

Note:
1. Due to independents, the total sum does not always add up to 100 percent.

Government Type
Type of government based on the following classification:

(1) Single-party majority government:
   One party takes all governments seats and has a parliamentary majority [>50.0%].

(2) Minimal winning coalition:
   All participating parties are necessary to form a majority government [>50.0%].

(3) Surplus coalition:
   Coalition governments which exceed the minimal-winning criterion [>50.0%].

(4) Single-party minority government:
   The party in government does not possess a majority in Parliament [≤50.0%].

(5) Multi-party minority government:
   The parties in government do not possess a majority in Parliament [≤50.0%].

(6) Caretaker government:
   Governments which should simply maintain the status quo.

(7) Technocratic government:
   Led by technocratic prime minister, consists of a majority of technocratic ministers and is in possession of a mandate to change the status quo.

Missing: None.

Notes:
1. Caretaker governments are governments which should simply maintain the status quo (Golder 2010: 4). Mostly the ministers of such governments, including the prime minister, belong to a specific party. However, in a few cases the governments consist of nonpartisan technocratic ministers. We still code these governments as caretaker governments as long as their mandate does not exceed the remit “to mind the shop”.

2. Based on McDonnell and Valbruzzi (2014: 11), we define a technocratic government as a government which is led by technocratic prime minister, consists of a majority of technocratic ministers and is in possession of a mandate to change the status quo. In a few cases, only the minority of ministers are technocrats. However, as long as the first and third criterion (technocratic prime minister and mandate to change the status quo) are fulfilled, we still code these governments as technocratic. Following McDonnell and Valbruzzi (2014: 4) we classify a prime minister as a being a technocrat if „at he time of his/her appointment to government, he/she: (1) has never held public office under the banner of a political party; (2) is not a formal member of any party; (3) is said to possess recognized non-party political expertise which is

3. Governments – Aggregated Variables

gov_right1 Government composition: cabinet posts of right-wing parties in percentage of total cabinet posts. Weighted by the number of days in office in a given year. Missing: None. Source: Own calculations primarily based on Schmidt and Beyer (1992); from 1991 on from the political data published in the European Journal of Political Research (Political Data Yearbook, various issues). For details see Appendix 1.

gov_cent1 Government composition: cabinet posts of center parties in percentage of total cabinet posts. Weighted by the number of days in office in a given year. Missing: None.
Codebook: Government Composition, 1960-2015

Source: See variable ‘gov_right1’.

gov_left1 Government composition: cabinet posts of social democratic and other left parties in percentage of total cabinet posts. Weighted by the number of days in office in a given year.
Missing: None.
Source: See variable ‘gov_right1’.

Notes:
1. Due to independents in government or non-partisan/technocratic governments, the calculations of ‘gov_right1’, ‘gov_cent1’ and ‘gov_left1’ do not always add up to 100 percent.
2. In countries where the democratic transition started later than in 1960, the calculations of government composition in the first year do not start on the 1st January. Instead, calculations start with the investiture date of the first democratic government. Thus the variables can still add up to 100 percent.

gov_right2 Government composition: relative power position of right-wing parties in government based on their seat share in parliament, measured in percentage of the total parliamentary seat share of all governing parties. Weighted by the number of days in office in a given year.
Missing: None.
Source: Own calculations primarily based on Schmidt and Beyer (1992); from 1991 on from the political data published in the European Journal of Political Research (Political Data Yearbook, various issues). For details see Appendix 1.

gov_cent2 Government composition: relative power position of center parties in government based on their seat share in parliament, measured in percentage of the total parliamentary seat share of all governing parties. Weighted by the number of days in office in a given year.
Missing: None.
Source: See variable ‘gov_right2’.

gov_left2 Government composition: relative power position of social democratic and other left parties in government based on their seat share in parliament, measured in percentage of the total parliamentary seat share of all governing parties. Weighted by the number of days in office in a given year.
Missing: None.
Source: See variable ‘gov_right2’.

Notes:
1. Changes in the composition of the parliament are not entered until there has been a change in government.
2. For some calculations the total weight does not amount to 100 percent due to non-partisan/technocratic governments in office.

gov_right3 Government support: parliamentary seat share of right-wing parties in government. Weighted by the number of days in office in a given year.
Missing: None.
Source: Own calculations primarily based on Schmidt and Beyer (1992); from 1991 on from the political data published in the European Journal of Political Research (Political Data Yearbook, various issues). For details see Appendix 1.
gov_cent3  Government support: parliamentary seat share of center parties in government. Weighted by the number of days in office in a given year.
Missing: None.
Source: See variable ‘gov_right3’.

gov_left3  Government support: parliamentary seat share of social democratic and other left parties in government. Weighted by the number of days in office in a given year.
Missing: None.
Source: See variable ‘gov_right3’.

Note:

gov_sup  Total government support: seat share of all parties in government. Weighted by the numbers of days in office in a given year.
Missing: None.
Source: See variable ‘gov_right3’.
Appendix

All entries were calculated on the basis of Schmidt and Beyer (1992), Woldendorp, Keman and Budge (1998), Ismayr (2003), Keesing’s Archive, European Journal of Political Research, Neue Zürcher Zeitung, People in Power (http://www.circa-uk.demon.co.uk/pip.html), parliaments and governments database (http://www.parlgov.org/explore), Colberg et al. (1998), Casal Bétoa (2016) and the Parline database (http://www.ipu.org/parline-e/parlinesearch.asp). The classification of parties was done according to Schmidt (1996). If there was no classification by Schmidt, we classified parties using the following assignments (see Appendix 2):

- ‘Left’ denotes social democratic parties and political parties to the left of social democrats
- ‘Right’ denotes liberal and conservative parties
- ‘Center’ denotes center parties, in particular Christian Democratic or Catholic parties. According to Schmidt (1996: 160), center parties favor a “moderate social amelioration in a location to the left of conservative or conservative-neoliberal parties.”

Note: According to its party manifesto, the Democratic Party of Japan (DPJ) is a center-left party. Since it is more to the center than to the left, we classified it as 'center' with regard to the party composition of government. However, for the 'elections' variables, we assigned this left-liberal party to the socialist party family ('social') which includes both traditional social democratic parties as well as blends of social-democratic and liberal parties.
